1. In mid-September 1953, Section A of Installation VIII at Karpin quartered a KVP artillery regiment, the soldiers of which wore red-bordered black collar patches. The regiment which was commanded by Major Durweiler, had a ration strength of about 500 men. However, it was, allegedly, intended to increase the unit to 1,000 men. The unit was mainly assigned guard missions. On 12 September, two companies of the regiment left the installation on 13 trucks, allegedly, for employment in the Berlin area. 25X1
2. Section B of Installation VIII also quartered an artillery unit whose soldiers wore the same service color. The unit had a ration strength of 550 to 600 men. Some 122-mm and 152-mm artillery pieces were parked near the ordnance shop. 25X1
3. During the reported period, source observed 36 T-43 tanks, 35 two-axle armored scout cars, and 32 trucks at the parking lot near Installation VIII. The 76.2-mm AT guns observed there in July 1953 were no longer seen. 25X1
4. The dates mentioned by Bau Union Nordost in Prenzlau for the completion of barracks buildings have not been kept so far. It was expected that the buildings involved would be completed in the late fall of 1953.
5. On 22 September, 180 sidecar motorcycles of Soviet make were being unloaded at Eggesin railroad station. The motorcycles which had a piston displacement of 750 cubic centimeters, were, allegedly, fitted with devices for the mounting of machine guns on the handle and the sidecar. Source learned that a total of 800 motorcycles was scheduled to arrive. 25X1
6. On 23 September, six new tanks arrived at Eggesin railroad station, where another five new tanks had been unloaded some weeks before. the tanks in use with the KVP were to be replaced by new equipment. 25X1

7. [redacted] a total of 300 million eastmarks was still required for the improvement of the training field near Torgelow and that a sum of 54 million eastmarks had been approved for 1954. 25X1
8. About 12:30 p.m. on 23 September, 35 three-axle prime movers, 20 of them towing 152-mm guns and 10 85-mm AA guns, proceeded through Eggesin toward Ahlbeck. The crews of the artillery pieces were loaded on the trucks [redacted] 25X1
9. From 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on 24 September, firing at naval and air targets was practiced on the beach near Altwarp. In the morning, 85-mm AA guns fired at a sleeve target towed by a twin-engine plane in straight flight; in the afternoon, heavy artillery pieces fired at targets towed by a large sea-going tug.<sup>6</sup>
10. On 29 September, a KVP unit detrained at Eggesin railroad station. The train consisted of 36 passenger cars and 6 troop cars. [redacted] about 200 men who carried small arms and wore blue and yellow-bordered black collar patches. The detrained unit was trucked away. 25X1
11. On 28 September, a farewell party was given to about 120 KVP officers in the Strandhalle in Ueckermuende. The officers who belonged to all branches of service were allegedly to be transferred to Poland. The officers left on 30 September. [redacted] 25X1
12. In late September, [redacted] 150 KVP officers had returned from a training course in the USSR.<sup>7</sup> 25X1
13. A large loading ramp about 300 meters long was completed at Hoppenwalde, about 5 km south of Ueckermuende. The section of the ramp which makes possible the unloading of heavy vehicles is 100 meters long.
14. About 9 a.m. on 11 September, about 500 KVP personnel who wore field equipment were marched from the billeting area in the woods near Eggesin to the railroad station. The soldiers were loaded into boxcars which left toward Pasewalk. After the train had left, another 400 to 500 KVPs were entrained and dispatched in the same direction. A third troop train with about 600 men left about 4 p.m. About 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. on 12 September, 500 KVPs each were entrained and dispatched in the same direction. [redacted] the units were to be employed in the Berlin area for about six weeks. After the units had left a large portion of the tent camp in Jagen (forest district) Nos 183, 184, 205 and 206 was vacated. [redacted] most of the tents were scheduled to be dismantled. In early September, the remaining tents allegedly still quartered 600 men.<sup>8</sup> 25X1
15. KVP training activities observed in the Eggesin area between 15 September and 5 October included:
- 15 September. At 10 a.m., 30 men armed with carbines and two light machine guns were training in the vicinity of Teerofen.
- 17 September. At 9 a.m., firing of artillery pieces was heard from the direction of Karpin.
- 18 September. At 2 p.m., 3 T-34/85 tanks and infantry soldiers were observed practicing in Jagen [redacted] Practice ammunition was used. 25X1

28 September. Between 10 and 11 a.m., source heard artillery fire from the direction of Karpin.

29 September. Between 3 and 4:30 p.m., 4 T-34/85 tanks were observed firing with practice ammunition near Teerofen.

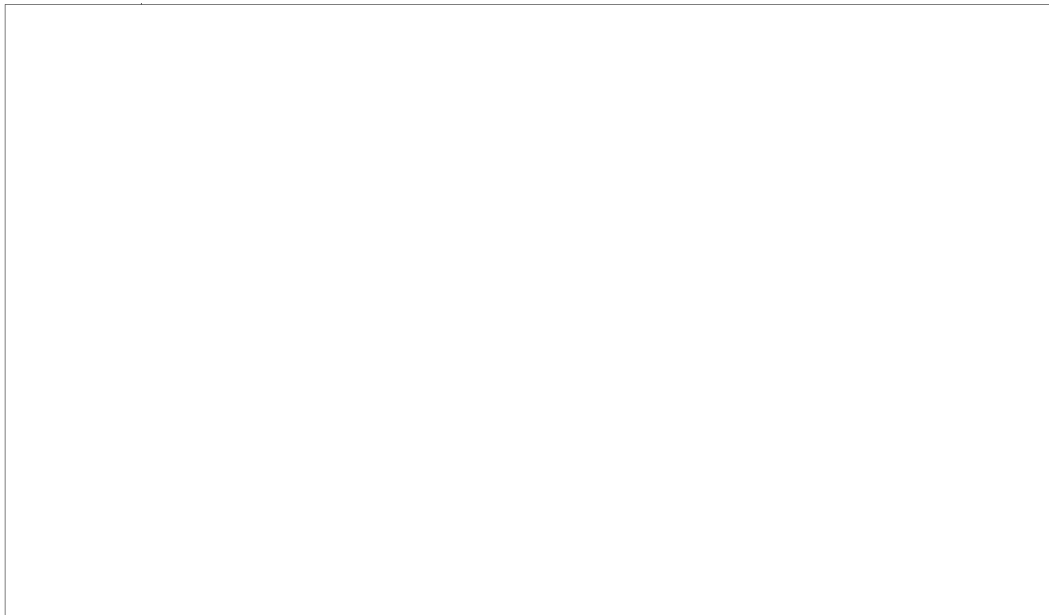

5 October. Many trucks loaded with personnel were seen leaving toward Altwarp.

16. During the reported period, construction activity in the wooded area near Eggesin decreased considerably. [redacted] only minor work was being done. Billeting equipment was trucked to the area almost daily. Since recently, the approach roads to the wooded area have been guarded by KVP soldiers. Officers' dependents moved into several houses of the officers' settlement. About 11 a.m. on 2 October, about 900 KVPs who wore blue collar patches arrived at Eggesin railroad station. The unit was quartered in permanent barracks buildings in the wooded area.<sup>9</sup>

1. [redacted] Comment. Prior to June 1953, the howitzer artillery regiment of Mechanized Division Eggesin had a strength of about 1,200 men. Through discharges and the transfer of several batteries to other KVP units the strength of the regiment decreased by about 60 percent. Since the recruiting campaign for the KVP continues, it may be expected that the regiment will gradually be brought again to a strength of 1,000 men.
